Background and methodology

Equity-Deserving Communities

Calgary’s Equity-Deserving Communities (EDCs) are defined as groups of people who generally have less access to opportunities, resources, and systems of power because of their actual or perceived identity or identities. EDCs often experience social and financial disadvantages because of systems of oppression, which takes many forms including, but not limited to, racism, sexism, and ableism.

The City aims to better understand the perspectives of equity-deserving communities through the lens of the annual Spring and Fall Surveys of Calgarians. The data in this report are from the 2024 Fall Survey of Calgarians. Inclusion in EDC groups is determined by self-reported demographic data from the general population survey. Both seasonal surveys are conducted in English to manage time and cost restraints. The City acknowledges that the ability to speak English may be a barrier for potential participants.

This is one of nine reports on Equity-Deserving Communities, each focusing on a different EDC. The EDCs and their demographic variables are as follows, with the EDC category noted in bold text below:

Household income

<$60,000

$60,000+

Note: self-reported pre-tax annual household income.

Methodology

- The survey was conducted by Ipsos Public Affairs from August 8, 2024 to September 3, 2024 with 2,500 Calgarians via telephone. The average time to complete the survey was 26 minutes.
- The survey was conducted using numbers from both cell phones (60%) and landlines (40%) to obtain a random and statistically-representative sample of Calgarians.
- To ensure the data was gathered from a representative group of Calgarians, sample quotas were set by age, gender, and ward of the general population aged 18 and older.
- Data were weighted based on the 2019 Municipal and 2021 Federal Census data for age, gender and quadrant to ensure composition reflects that of the actual Calgary population aged 18 or older. Although the results are weighted, the sample size shown for each question represents the number of actual respondents (i.e., unweighted n).
- The margin of error (MOE) for the total sample of 2,500 is ± 2.0 percentage points, 19 times out of 20. The margin of error for the Racialized Calgarians sub-group of 473 is ± 4.5 percentage points, 19 times out of 20. The margin of error of each question will vary slightly depending on the total number of respondents who answered the question.

Interpreting results

Interpreting results

Not all questions asked within the Fall Survey of Calgarians are represented within this report. Results are compared between Racialized Calgarians and non-Racialized Calgarians. Statistically significant differences are noted throughout the report:

- ↑ indicates number is significantly higher than the other group.
- ↓ indicates number is significantly lower than the other group.
- * Some results in this report are subject to rounding adjustments.

Significant differences are an indication that a difference is not due to chance. A mathematical formula is used to calculate each difference independently. Whether or not a difference is considered significant depends on a few factors including the total sample size and the variability of responses. Larger sample sizes mean that smaller differences are significant. Additionally, variability of responses means that the more alike the responses are the more significant a change will be.

2024 Fall key findings

2024 Fall highlights (1 of 6)

Quality of life

Racialized Calgarians have a positive outlook on Calgary's overall quality of life, viewing it as a great place to make a life and a living. They also show optimism about the city's future, with a majority believing Calgary is on the right track for improvement in the coming decade.

There are similarities in how Racialized Calgarians and non-Racialized Calgarians perceive the quality of life in Calgary, specifically:

- Agreeing Calgary is a great place to make a life (74% of Racialized Calgarians and 69% of non-Racialized Calgarians)
- Rating the overall quality of life in Calgary as good (68% and 67%)
- Agreeing Calgary is a great place to make a living (63% for both groups)

While the two groups equally rate the quality of life currently, they do differ in their opinions about the future, with a higher number of Racialized Calgarians agreeing that Calgary is on the right track to be a better city 10 years from now (70% of Racialized Calgarians vs. 59% of non-Racialized Calgarians).

Inclusivity

The City's inclusivity efforts are viewed favourably by Racialized Calgarians. They recognize Calgary as an accepting city and appreciate The City's programs that address diverse groups. However, they have mixed feelings about The City reducing participation barriers.

Racialized and non-Racialized Calgarians agree similarly that The City fosters a city that is inclusive and accepting of all (72% of Racialized Calgarians and 68% of non-Racialized).

However, significant differences emerge between the two groups on other measures. Racialized Calgarians express more favourable views that:

- City programs and services meet the needs of Calgarians regardless of age, ability, income, gender, race and ethnic/cultural identity and language (65% vs. 56% of non-Racialized Calgarians)
- The City of Calgary delivers programs and services that remove barriers to participation for Calgarians who need it the most (51% vs. 45%)

2024 Fall highlights (2 of 6)

Safety

Most residents perceive Calgary as generally safe. However, they are less confident about safety for diverse groups. This concern extends to public transportation, where despite The City's efforts to maintain Calgary Transit's safety, apprehensions remain. Consequently, a significant number Racialized Calgarians continue to avoid using public transit due to safety concerns.

The two groups have some differing opinions about Calgary's safety, with a higher proportion of Racialized Calgarians:

- Perceiving Calgary as a 'safe' city (82% of Racialized Calgarians vs. 73% of non-Racialized Calgarians)
- Agreeing that The City is taking sufficient steps to ensure Calgary Transit is a safe travel option (72% vs. 58%)
- Agreeing that Calgary is safe for all residents and visitors regardless of ethnicity, race, religion, income, or sexual identity (57% vs. 47%)

Racialized and non-Racialized Calgarians have similar transit-riding patterns with half of each group avoiding taking transit in Calgary due to personal safety concerns (50% of Racialized Calgarians and 49% of non-Racialized Calgarians).

The environment

Awareness of Calgary's environmental programs varies among racialized residents, with some familiar with these initiatives and others less so.

Racialized and non-Racialized Calgarians have similar awareness on The City's environmental initiatives, the two groups agree that The City has programs and services aimed at helping Calgarians reduce their environmental impact (53% and 51%).

2024 Fall highlights (3 of 6)

City services and programs

A majority of Racialized Calgarians view the overall quality of services and programs positively.

Satisfaction with the overall quality of services and programs provided by The City of Calgary are similar among both Racialized and non-Racialized Calgarians (67% of Racialized Calgarians and 62% of non-Racialized Calgarians).

Taxation

While not the prevailing view, a sizable minority of Racialized Calgarians feel the value received for municipal tax dollars is good.

The two groups, Racialized Calgarians and non-Racialized Calgarians, share a similar view on taxation, with both groups being mixed in their perception that they get good value from their municipal tax dollars (44% good among Racialized Calgarians and 43% among non-Racialized Calgarians).

Customer service

The City of Calgary's customer service meets expectations for most Racialized Calgarians.

Racialized Calgarians and non-Racialized Calgarians differ in their opinions about customer service with a higher proportion of Racialized Calgarians being positive about The City meeting their customer service expectations (75% of Racialized Calgarians vs. 69% of non-Racialized Calgarians).

Input from Calgarians

Overall, Racialized Calgarians feel positively about their involvement in City decision making. Many recognize The City's efforts to bolster public involvement in important decisions. Many also agree The City is responding to residents needs and has sufficient opportunities for public input.

Statistical differences exist between Racialized Calgarians and non-Racialized Calgarians on all measures pertaining to input, a higher proportion of Racialized Calgarians agree that:

- The City is working to improve how it includes Calgarians' input into important decisions (63% of Racialized Calgarians vs. 50% of non-Racialized Calgarians)
- The City of Calgary is responsive to the needs and expectations of Calgarians (62% vs. 54%)
- Calgarians have enough opportunities to provide input into decision making about City projects and services (56% vs. 49%)

City reputation and performance

While City Administration is well-regarded by many Racialized Calgarians, while City Council receives less enthusiastic approval. This mix of opinions contributes to a moderately positive overall perception of The City as a whole. Trust in The City lags behind these performance ratings.

Reputation and performance indicators are perceived similarly by both groups.

- Satisfaction with City Administration, excluding City Council (66% of Racialized Calgarians and 63% of non-Racialized Calgarians)
- Trusting The City of Calgary (43% and 40%)

The two groups also have some differences. For these measures, Racialized Calgarians have higher satisfaction with:

- The City of Calgary, including Council and Administration as a whole (58% of Racialized Calgarians vs. 52% of non-Racialized Calgarians)
- City Council, excluding City Administration (54% vs. 44%)

2024 Fall highlights (5 of 6)

Council focus areas

The City's efforts in promoting cultural diversity resonate strongly with most Racialized Calgarians. Many also acknowledge The City's work on Indigenous relations and social matters.

In evaluating council focus areas, Racialized and non-Racialized Calgarians share a similar view on one aspect. Both groups agree that The City is doing a good job at working to ensure Calgary is seen as a city that celebrates culture, heritage, and diversity (90% of Racialized Calgarians and 87% of non-Racialized Calgarians).

Despite this alignment, there are differences between the two groups in their ratings of other council focus areas:

- A lower proportion of Racialized Calgarians agree that The City is doing a good job working to build meaningful relationships with Indigenous partners (76% vs. 85% of non-Racialized Calgarians).
- A higher proportion of Racialized Calgarians agree that The City is doing a good job at working with community partners to address social issues such as mental health and addiction (64% vs. 58%).

2024 Fall highlights (6 of 6)

Housing

Most Racialized Calgarians believe current housing is not accessible to all, particularly for low-income residents. Consequently, a majority support City investment in affordable housing programs.

Both groups similarly agree that The City should invest more into affordable housing programs for low income Calgarians (87% of Racialized Calgarians and 84% of non-Racialized Calgarians).

Meanwhile, the two groups have differences in opinions when it comes to all Calgarians having access to market housing that meets their needs. More Racialized Calgarians agree with this statement compared to non-Racialized Calgarians (41% vs. 27%). However, it's important to note that in both groups, only a minority believe adequate market housing is accessible to all.

Downtown Calgary

Almost all Racialized Calgarians call for improved downtown safety measures. They also show strong support for increased City investment in downtown infrastructure.

Both Racialized and non-Racialized Calgarians similarly agree that The City should take more action to address safety issues in downtown, with 97% of Racialized Calgarians and 93% of non-Racialized Calgarians supporting this view.

Also, there is a statistical difference between the two groups, with a higher proportion of Racialized Calgarians believing that The City should be investing more into infrastructure in Calgary's downtown (78% of Racialized Calgarians vs. 69% of non-Racialized Calgarians).

Promoting Calgary as a city of culture, heritage, and diversity

A vast majority (87%) of Calgarians agree that The City is doing a good job working to ensure Calgary is seen as a city that celebrates culture, heritage, and diversity. While both the Racialized and non-Racialized groups show similar overall agreement with this statement (90% and 87%), a statistical difference appears in the strength of that agreement with a higher proportion of Racialized Calgarians ‘strongly’ agreeing (45% vs. 35% of non-Racialized Calgarians), and fewer Racialized Calgarians ‘somewhat’ agreeing (44% vs. 51%).

“Working to ensure Calgary is seen as a city that celebrates culture, heritage and diversity.”
